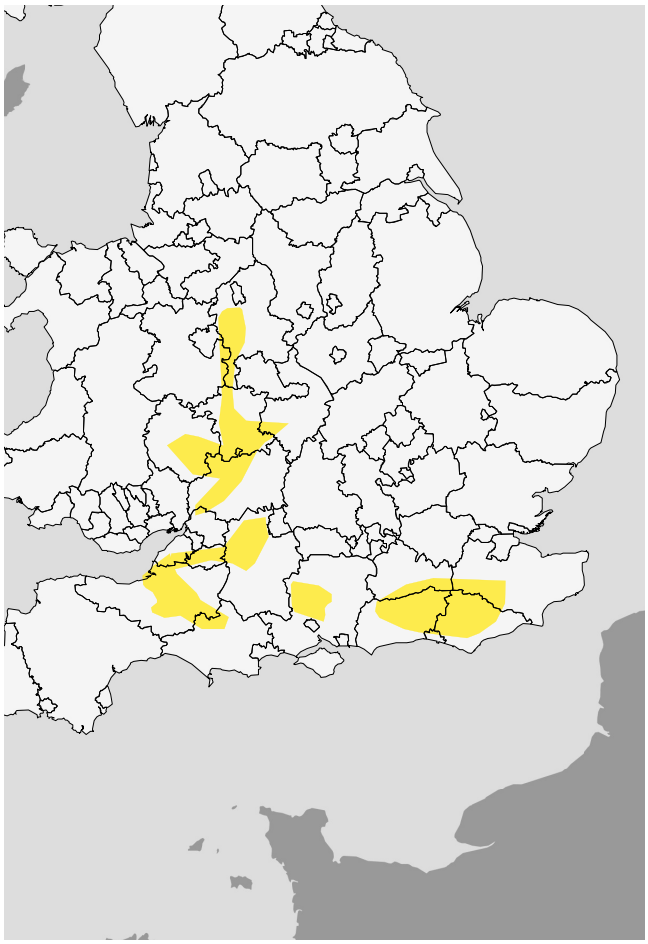
Yellow warning
Fog

Between
04:04 Thu 13 Jan 2022 and
11:00 Thu 13 Jan 2022



Areas of fog have formed overnight and will be slow to clear in places Thursday morning - perhaps bringing some travel disruption

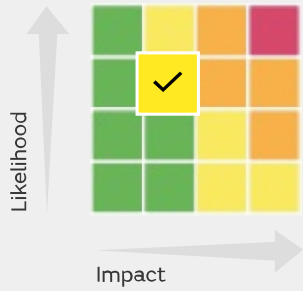
What to expect

- Slower journey times with delays to bus and train services possible
- Difficult driving conditions with rapid changes to the visibility along routes possible
- There is a chance of delays or cancellations to flights

Further details

Areas of fog have formed in low lying areas over southern England and northwards into parts of the West Midlands. These are likely to be dense in places with the visibility falling to less than 100 m.

Fog will gradually lift and clear through the morning though a few small patches may persist into the afternoon.



Medium likelihood of low impacts
